

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

The present invention provides a separator for a fuel cell in which an electrically anisotropic conductive filler can be made uniformly oriented without using a special mold or special molding apparatus, and which has excellent conductivity.